PROSECUTE FOR DEATH UNDER FEDERAL LAWS

INTERESTING CASE CALLED FOR THE TRIAL IN CIRCUIT COURT TODAY.

HUSBAND KILLED AT MENDOTA

Can Sue for But $10,000 Under the State Law so Attorneys Claim Overland Train and Federal Jurisdiction.

A case of extraordinary interest was called for trial in the circuit court today, in that the federal laws enter largely into its prosecution. The trial is that of Moore vs. Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway company, the plaintiff asking for $50,000 for the death of her husband, who was killed by one of the defendant's trains at Mendota.

Under the statutes of the state of Illinois, the maximum amount that can be secured for a death is $10,000, therefore the attorneys for Mrs. Moore decided to try the case under the federal law, alleging that the deceased was killed by one of the company's fast overland trains running from Nebraska to Chicago and that, therefore, inasmuch as the interstate commerce commission controls the rates, etc., for interstate traffic the federal laws could be invoked in the case. The national laws provide no maximum limit for death damages, therefore the suit was brought for the large amount named. The case is the first to be tried in this district in which the national provision enters into consideration.

Attorneys C. B. Morrison and Brooks & Brooks represent Mrs. Moore, while Dixon & Dixon of this city are counsel for the defendant.

TRAIN KILLED MAN SATURDAY NIGHT

MANGLED BODY OF WILLIAM CAMPBELL FOUND NEAR COMPTON.

WALKING TO WEST BROOKLYN

Details of Tragedy Unknown—Body Was Found by Roy Carnahan Near His Home.

Compton, Ill., Oct. 13.—Special to Telegraph—William Campbell, a resident of West Brooklyn, Ill., was found dead on the right of way of the C. B. & Q. railroad near Carnahan station, a short distance west of Compton, Sunday morning by Roy Carnahan, a young farmer residing there. Mr. Carnahan was out doing his morning chores when he discovered the mangled body of the man, but life was extinct. He immediately notified the authorities at Compton and they took the body to the undertaking establishment of Undertaker Anglemeyer at Compton.

The funeral was held from the M. E. church in West Brooklyn this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Investigation is said to have disclosed the fact that the unfortunate man had been under the influence of intoxicants, and after spending the evening in Compton, he started to walk home. It is likely he was overtaken by a train and struck, although the details of the tragedy will never be known. Mr. Campbell had worked in this vicinity for several years and was well known and liked.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

WAS DEFEATED AT MORRISON, 8 TO 6, BUT PLAYED A BETTER GAME.

RURAL CARRIERS TO RECEIVE BETTER PAY

TEN PER CENT INCREASE IN SALARIES OF COUNTRY MAIL CARRIERS

The increased burden on rural mail carriers by the parcel post, has resulted in a movement in congress to increase the salaries of these faithful servants of the public. A bill has been introduced by a member of the post office committee. The following salaries for carriers are prescribed in the bill: Routes 6 to 8 miles long, $532; routes 8 to 10 miles, $580; 10 to 12 miles, $629; 12 to 14 miles, $677; 14 to 16 miles, $726; 16 to 18 miles, $847; 18 to 20 miles, $968; 20 to 22 miles, $1,089; 22 to 24 miles, $1,161; over 24 miles, $1,210. In this county the routes are all long and most of the carriers would be entitled to the maximum amount. This increase of 10 per cent is over the present salaries. Some such increase it is believed is sure to be made by Congress.

WARD MILLER BROKE INTO SUNDAY'S GAME

CROSSED OCEAN FOR HIS RUNAWAY WIFE

BULGARIAN ARRIVES IN ROCKFORD AND FINDS SPOUSE AGAIN MARRIED

Rockford, Oct. 8.—It's a long journey from Bulgaria to Rockford, but that is the trip that Henni Bulas, a Croatian, took in search of his wife who ran away from her husband and baby seven months ago, and Bulas received quite a shock when he discovered his wife had married again and is expecting to become a mother.

Bulas reached Rockford about a week ago and after questioning friends here he located his wife at 925 Cunningham street. She has been living at this address for seven months as the wife of Rade Beckus to whom she was married at the court house here.

The police were in doubt just what charge to place against the woman. After investigation this morning the state's attorney asked a continuance till Friday so that he might look up the records. It may be that a bigamy charge will be preferred. Bulas said he is willing to take his wife back, but she is not agreeable to this arrangement. As she was led away to jail by a deputy sheriff she snapped her fingers in his face and shouted the Bulgarian for "pooh pooh" at him.

WANT STREET LIGHTS REVIEWED

Dusty Ones Should Be Cleaned—Water From Stand Pipe Is Contaminating Street

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID

Approved letter written to Illinois Northern Utilities company by Mayor Brinton asking that the street lights about the city be cleaned and that the dim lights be replaced with new ones. Also instructed him to ask the Utilities company to provide a meter for the city hall, which is included in their contract with the city.

Referred to Commissioner Schuler request of G. G. Gatch for permission to lay steam pipe across Galena avenue for heating his property, the old Utley flats.

Granted dram shop license to John C. Horrigan, who purchased the business of Emil Pressler, at 707 Depot avenue.

Instructed Mayor Brinton to communicate with Dixon Water company and have that company turn overflow water from its standpipe into the sewer instead of the street.

The Dixon Water company and the Illinois Northern Utilities company came in for some discussion at the meeting of the city council this morning when Mayor Brinton was instructed to communicate with each and demand the ammeter for the city building, which had been promised by the company, and asking the water company to turn the overflow water from its standpipe into the sewer instead of onto the street.

It was pointed out that the water is ruining the street and that the only remedy is to turn it into the sewer. Accordingly Mayor Brinton wrote the necessary letter this morning. In this connection the mayor reported that he had also written the company asking that the street lights in the residence district be cleaned and that new lights be put in where the old bulbs are dimmed.

Commissioner Schuler was referred a petition from G. G. Gatch, who recently purchased the Noble property at the corner of Third street and Galena avenue, asking permission to lay a steam pipe across Galena avenue. It is his intention to heat both buildings with steam, the plant to be located in the east building.

Grant License.

Comiskey Park, Chicago, Oct. 13.—Special to Telegraph—All Chicago was on tip-toe this afternoon when Manager Evers and his Cubs, desperate in knowledge the loss of today's game with the White Sox would for the fourth time give the American leaguers the championship of Chicago, led his men against the confident cohorts of Callahan on the south side grounds. The big park was jammed to capacity long before the rival teams appeared the gates being locked after 37,000 people had jammed their way into the big park. Evers, as his last possible card, picked Humphries, the silent pitcher who shut the Sox out 8 to 0 Wednesday, to go against them today. Callahan selected Death Valley Jim Scott, with Russell in reserve, to put over the final victory.

O'Laughlin is umpiring at the plate, with Orth on the bases, Sheridan in left field and O'day caring for the right garden.

FAMILY THEATRE

Manager Slothower has secured the Twirling Talbots in sensation al ring and revolving feats and are highly recommended by other theatres. Another feature is the moving pictures which the manager has secured, the latest and best.

OPERA HOUSE.

The opening bill at the opera house the first half of this week can be classed as a big comedy bill, in fact every act contains comedy. The headliner is the Flying Fishers, a great comedy aerial act. This company was featured with Ringling Bros.' circus for five years. Adeline Carr & Co. present a very nice comedy playlet entitled Hazel. The bill also includes Newcombe & Williams and Petre & Budd as well as change of pictures.

Protection From Hedge.

A good hedge on the west and south of the paddock and farmstead makes it more comfortable for stock and man. Willow, ash and Norway poplar make good, quick-growing wind breaks. Elm, hackberry, and among evergreens, the spruce, make slower-growing, but longer-lived wind-breaks.

Importance of Sire.

Investigation has shown that a cow's mother's sire exerts almost as much influence upon the milk giving qualities of that cow as does her own.

U.S. WARNS HUERTA NOT TO MURDER

Washington Sends Message to Mexican Capital—Deputies Periled.

BRYAN ON WAY TO CAPITAL

Cabinet Member and Wife Rush Home—Secretary Admits That Mexican Situation Is Reason for Hurry.

Washington, Oct. 13.—President Huerta has been given to understand, in the most positive manner, that the putting to death of any of the members of the chamber of deputies, now in confinement by his orders, will be regarded with extreme disfavor by the government of the United States and by the American people.

Notification to this effect has been served upon Senor Moheño, minister of foreign affairs, by Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires in Mexico City.

Act on Lind's Advice.

John Lind, confidential agent of President Wilson, cabled the department of state advising that this step be taken. Upon his recommendation instructions were at once sent to Mr. O'Shaughnessy at Mexico City to impress upon the officials of the de facto government the fact that the government of the United States is keenly concerned over the fate of the deputies.

Bryan Hurries Back.

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 13.—Secretary of State Bryan and Mrs. Bryan left hurriedly for Washington, canceling a stop at East Radford, Va., where the Bryans had intended to remain today with ex-Governor Tyler and Mrs. Tyler. Mr. Bryan would only say the Mexican situation demanded his immediate presence at the capital.

Divided Over Huerta.

Mexico City, Oct. 13.—There has been endless speculation here regarding the effect of Provisional Huerta's coup d'etat. While many appear to believe it will cause a split in the army, there is a large element that believes President Huerta took the only possible course.

Huerta's friends say had the deputies believed any substantial part of the army would stand with them they would have overridden Huerta and taken control of the government.

Must Await Trials.

Manuel Garza Alade, minister of the interior, issued the following announcement:

"The deputies who have been arrested and imprisoned cannot be released on any writ. They will be tried for the various offenses of which they are accused. Not one of them has been released by the government up to date. They will be treated well while in confinement.

The imprisoned deputies will not be permitted to talk to anyone, even on regular visiting days. Detachments of troops still patrol the streets.

Amushed by Rebels.

According to a witness of the retreat of General Alvarez from Torreon, that general started from the city with 400 men and a battery of artillery. General Argumedo followed a short distance behind with 200 men. Four thousand rebels belonging to the command of Gen. Francisco Villa, a former bandit known as "Pancho," ambushed the two federal forces, coming between them.

When General Alvarez saw himself hopelessly surrounded and his men being shot down on all sides and only half a dozen of his men left, he broke his sword, sat on his horse and waited. The rebel bullets put an end to his life.

Villa came soon afterward, saw the body of Alvarez and ordered his men to take it into Torreon. There it was suspended from a telegraph pole in a conspicuous place in the center of the city.

Only three of Alvarez's men, a captain, a sergeant and a private, survived the fight.

SIX PERISH IN RIVER

Skiff Overturned in River by Waves From Passing Steamer.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 13.—Six persons, all closely related, were drowned in the Allegheny river near Tarentum when a skiff in which they were being rowed across the stream to visit relatives overturned from the swell of a passing steamer.

The dead: Antoine Widmer, Carl Widmer, John Widmer, Julius Sobor, brother-in-law of the Widmers; John Widmer, Jr., aged thirteen. Two other persons, George Oblinger and a man who had been engaged to row the party across the river saved their lives by clinging to the sides of the overturned boat.

International Balloon Race On.

Paris, Oct. 13.—Balloons and pilots representing England, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, the United States and France sailed away from the Tuilleries Garden today in the balloon race for the International cup. France, the present cup-holder, was represented by Maurice Bienalme, Leblanc and Rumpelmayer. The United States was represented by R. H. Upson and Capt. H. E. Honeywell, both of whom have been making preliminary flights in their balloon for a couple of weeks.

T. L. WOODRUFF IS DEAD

Former Lieutenant Governor of New York Succumbs.

Well Known Politician Stricken With Paralysis While Making Speech at a Progressive Meeting.

New York, Oct. 13.—Former Lieut. Gov. Timothy L. Woodruff died in his apartments. Mr. Woodruff has been in a state of coma practically all the time since he was stricken. A week ago he rallied a bit. Mrs. Woodruff was at the bedside when the end came.

Mr. Woodruff was speaking in behalf of the Progressive party to which he shifted his allegiance when he left the Republican ranks last year, when he was seized with the stroke. Out of sheer nerve he proceeded with his speech and stopped talking only when he collapsed completely.

Mr. Woodruff was fifty-five years old and came of good Connecticut stock and arrived in New York in 1880 at the age of twenty-two years with no capital nor prospective backing other than diplomas from Yale and a business college and a clear cut purpose to apply himself to commercial life and watch for opportunities.

Seventeen years later he was lieutenant governor of New York, a partner in the house in which he first found employment at $8 a week, the head of an insurance company and of a patent medicine concern, director in various banking and industrial corporations and a leader in Republican politics.

He was twice married—first to Miss Cora Eastman of Poughkeepsie, by whom he had a son, John, born in 1882. She died in 1900. In 1905 he was married to Miss Isabel Morrison, who survives him.

JACK JOHNSON LOSES BOND

Negro Becomes Naturalized Citizen of French Republic.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—"Jack" Johnson has become a naturalized French citizen. The negro pugilist has quit this country for good, and the United States government, which has been holding a claim on him on "white-slavery" charges, will add to its assets $30,000, representing the amount of the bonds which may be forfeited by the prize fighter when his case comes up for hearing in the federal court this morning.

Johnson's hatred for this country and his love for France, or Paris, to be exact, were flaunted in a letter received from him by a negro saloon-keeper. The letter, which was written in Paris, shows that the fighter is reaping a harvest in Europe on the vaudeville stage.

MILITANTS ATTACK ROYALTY

King George and Queen Mary Have Narrow Escape.

London, Oct. 13.—King George and Queen Mary, who attended a command performance at a London music hall, had a narrow escape from being mobbed by suffragettes. The women, who had gathered in considerable numbers, made a lively dash for the royal carriage on its arrival at the theater, shouting: "Women are being tortured in prison!" They had almost reached the carriage when the police closed around and with defiant shouts of "Vote for women!" were hurled back. The suffragettes were treated roughly by the crowd, but managed to escape arrest.

CONGRESS MAY CALL HALT

Canvass Made on Proposal for Recess Until Senate Reports.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Senator Hoke Smith was canvassing the senate for opinions on the advisability of a recess until about November 15, when the administration currency bill is expected on the floor from committee. Consent of the house would be necessary. Many senators want a rest, and feel that a recess will in no way delay the bill.

Charges of a conspiracy of bankers to defeat or delay the bill were vigorously resented before the senate banking committee by a delegation of Illinois bankers.

GIRL IN RECORD SWIM

Myrtle Wright Sets New Mark on Coast.

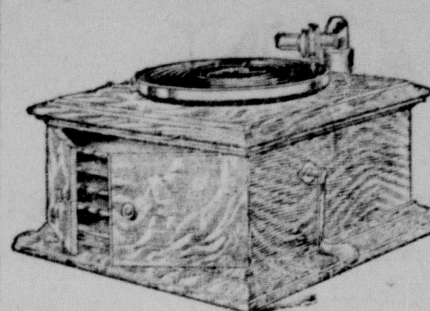

San Francisco, Oct. 13.—Myrtle Wright, twelve years old, swam the Golden Gate and broke all previous records of women swimmers. Her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Wright, swam with her and also made a new record. The child made it in 35:40; the mother in 35 minutes flat. The best previous women's record is 42 minutes. The distance is between a mile and a quarter and a mile and a half in a straight line, but swimmers always are carried well out of their course.

WOMEN DIE IN PANIC

DOCTORS DID NOT HELP HER

But Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. LeClear's Health—Her Own Statement.

Detroit, Mich.—"I am glad to discover a remedy that relieves me from my suffering and pains. For two years I suffered bearing down pains and got all run down. I was under a nervous strain and could not sleep at night. I went to doctors here in the city but they did not do me any good."

"Seeing Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised, I tried it. My health improved wonderfully and I am now quite well again. No woman suffering from female ills will regret if she takes this medicine."—Mrs. JAMES G. LECLEAR, 336 Hunt St., Detroit, Mich.

Another Case.
Philadelphia, Pa.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is all you claim it to be. About two or three days before my periods I would get backaches, then pains in right and left sides, and my head would ache. I called the doctor and he said I had organic inflammation. I went to him for a while but did not get well so I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking two bottles I was relieved and finally my troubles left me. I married and have two little girls. I have had no return of the old troubles."—Mrs. CHAS. BOELL, 2650 S. Chadwick St., Phila., Pa.

DEPEND ON THE MILLINERY

Coiffure Styles Must Be Arranged According to the Hat That Is to Be Worn.

Millinery fashions determine to a great extent what hair fashions shall be. It is necessary to dress the hair very high or very low in order to wear the new hats becomingly. In the case of high hair dressing the hat fits over a French roll, showing only the soft waves of hair in the back. Waved hair will be universally favored, as it tends to give a fluffy, full effect to any arrangement. The hair may be parted either in the center or on the side, preferably at the side. The low, flat pompadour may be worn with low or high hair dressings. A fringe across the forehead, and the little cluster of curls tucked in at the side or back are becoming touches.

Covering the ears with soft waves of hair, and the little fringe over the forehead, add much to the becomingness of the new fall hats. Shapes are small and close fitting, and the hair in its new arrangement forms a pretty and becoming frame to the face.

The following is a leading headdress for fall. Three articles are necessary to its completion. A round cascade of hair without wire, and with a hole in the center; a roll of hair over which the hair is rolled to form a French twist and a 26-inch twist, or two 22-inch twists, which form the twist and the swathing around the head.

The hair is waved, forming a flat pompadour, brought loosely down over the ears and to the crown of the head, where it is tied. The cascade is pinned to the crown of the head, the switch being brought through the center and divided in two parts; then it is rolled over the roll, attached to the head at the top, and again at the nape of the neck, forming a French roll effect.

Case of Nervous.
The young man entered the president's office and stood first on one foot and then on the other. He dropped his hat, handkerchief and umbrella. Altogether he was in a highly developed case of nervousness. "Well, well," said the employer. "Out with it. I have come, sir," said the young man, and then began to stammer. "Well, speak up. Have you come to ask for the hand of my daughter or a raise in salary?" "If you please, sir," stammered the young man, "it's both."—Detroit Free Press.

Misanthropic.
During a discussion of one of the things in general, some one asked, "If a young man takes his best girl to the grand opera, spends eight dollars on a supper after the performance, and then takes her home in a taxicab, should he kiss her goodnight?" "An old bachelor who was present growled: 'I don't think she ought to expect it. Seems to me he has done enough for her.'—Clayton H. Ranck in Lippincott's.

Bacchanals.

The ancient custom in New Amsterdam known as the Bacchanals appears to have been a variety of the general carnival festivities of Shrove Tuesday. The matter came up for the decision of Peter Stuyvesant on oral complaint (February 25, 1654) of the burgomasters and most of the schepens of the town that without their consent the director-general had issued "an interdiction and forbidden some farm servants to pluck the goose at the Bacchanal on the eve of Ash Wednesday." Hardkoppig Piet responded that "it has never been the custom in this country during their time and is considered entirely frivolous, needless and irreparable by subjects and neighbors to celebrate such heathenish and popish festivals and to introduce such bad customs into this country even though, as the burgomasters and schepens pretend, it may be tolerated in some places of our Fatherland or be winked at" (Documents xlv, 249). The order was communicated by Claes van Elsland, but the farm servants plucked the goose defiantly, two or three vilified their superiors and were clapped into jail.

The earth road will doubtless be commonly used in rural communities for many years because of its low cost. The ever-recurring problem of upkeep on such a road can be solved very largely by the use of the so-called split-log drag.

Anyone who can use tools reasonably well can build one of these drags at a cost of four to five dollars for labor and material. Very few tools are required in making the drag, and its use is as simple and cheap as its construction. If desired, metal drags can be purchased at a somewhat greater cost from manufacturers of road machinery.

Careful use of the drag on a road that is already in reasonably good condition will almost entirely prevent trouble from ruts, mud holes or dust, and give good service at a reasonably low cost.

TREES GO WITH GOOD ROADS

Washington School Teacher Contributes Striking Appeal in Federal Bulletin—Of Much Aid.

Good roads and their relation to the welfare of humanity, and the relation of trees to good roads, are the subjects with which Miss Susan B. Sipe, a teacher in the James Ormond Wilson Normal school and at the head of the school garden work, deals in a pamphlet just issued by the United States bureau of education. The bulletin is entitled "Good Road Arbor Day" and advocates the planting of trees in connection with good roads.

Miss Sipe points out that often trees are disliked along the sides of bad roads because they prevent the mud from drying quickly after a rain. This forms no objection when the roads are good, however, it is pointed out.

Reasons for planting trees by the roadside are given by Miss Sipe:

"One has only to pass from the glare of the dust and heat of the long stretch of unshaded road on a hot summer day to the relief afforded by trees to know the value of roadside planting. This same physical comfort comes to horses as well as to man."

"The effect of trees on the road itself is seldom thought of, except to the disadvantage of the trees. They keep the roads from drying out after wet weather; is the usual charge. On a poorly built road this is true. They are an aid on a well built one, if not planted too close. Roots constantly taking in water assist in drainage. That which is a protection from the sun is also a shelter from rain. The tree tops break the force of driving rains, thus preventing washes in the road. This more than counterbalances the occasional drip marks that are seen."

"The most important use of trees by the roadside is the prevention of dust. Dust is the cementing material in macadam roads, and if it is loosened and blown away, the road suffers. Properly planted, they form wind-breaks and prevent snowdrifts. They make the road cooler by day and warmer by night and serve at night to mark the road."

Dr. Philander P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, has the following to say by way of introduction to the book in his letter of transmittal:

"One of the greatest needs of our country is good public roads. The reason we do not have them wherever needed is not primarily because of the cost of building them, for in the last quarter of a century we have spent more money for other things than would be required to pay for the building of good roads to and through every place having any considerable population. Our annual mud tax is greater than would be the tax necessary to pay the interest on bonds to build good roads."

"The roads are not built because the people do not understand their value nor comprehend how much beauty they would contribute to the country and how much pleasure to life. It is largely a matter of sentiment and ideals. These are most easily created in childhood. What one would have in the state of tomorrow must be put into the schools of today. Not only should we build good roads, we should also make them attractive and comfortable to travel over. In many European countries this is done by planting the roadside with rows of trees."

"On some of the broader and more important public highways there are double rows of trees on either side. The eye follows the road across country not as a broad white band, with heat shimmering above it or dust hovering over it, but by rows of stately trees covered with foliage in the summer, their bare branches silhouetted against the sky in winter. On many of the roads fruit trees are planted. These add to the fruit supply of the people and to the resources of the state for the upkeep of the roads. This tree planting by the roadside has not yet become common in this country, as it should."

Earth Roads Most Popular

Doubtless Will Be Commonly Used in Rural Districts Because of Their First Low Cost.

(By H. R. FLINT, University Farm, St. Paul, Minn.)

The earth road will doubtless be commonly used in rural communities for many years because of its low cost. The ever-recurring problem of upkeep on such a road can be solved very largely by the use of the so-called split-log drag.

RICHEST MAN IN HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Although William Kent of California is credited with being the richest man in the national house of representatives, the size of his appropriation for clothes and personal adornment is a constant source of grief to all his friends and playmates.

Just to see Kent paddling blithely along the street wearing, among other things, an iridescent coat which might have been blue some time back in 1900, and a hat that will probably hold together, unless it rains, is a post-graduate course in how to save money on wearing apparel.

One afternoon Kent dropped into the state department to keep an engagement with Secretary Bryan. It was after the regular hours for receiving visitors in the building, so that he was promptly held up at the entrance.

"I'm Mr. Kent of California, to see Secretary Bryan," Kent explained. The watchman took the message to the captain, who peered round his desk. He saw a curious looking individual, needing a shave, a shine and a haircut, dressed in clothes of a half-forgotten style that apparently hadn't been pressed since they were bought. Then the captain went into a hurried consultation with his watch.

Meantime, Kent was outside in the hall, shifting from one foot to the other, waiting patiently on the theory that maybe the present watch had never seen him before and was looking him up in the Congressional directory.

At last a quiet, watchful, pleasant-spoken young man came out and cordially asked Kent to take a seat in the "reception room," while a messenger could be sent up to let the secretary know he was here. In the "reception room" Kent met several other quiet, watchful, pleasant-spoken young men, who all seemed in a very talkative mood, and very inquisitive as to Kent's affairs.

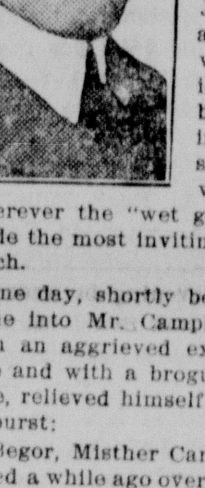

Then, all of a sudden, as Kent got a flash of a tin star under one young man's coat, it came over him what was up. "Mr. Kent of California," who "had the engagement with Secretary Bryan," was pinched for a "nut" and held under observation! He "didn't look good."

"By the way," he said, sort of off-hand, "you might have my card taken up to the secretary. Instead of just sending up my name."

He pitched over one of his official cards, and as a guard picked it up Kent could see the man's eyes pop. Kent was upstairs and in Bryan's office within 15 seconds. He never said anything about the mistake at the door, and to this day the watch doesn't know that Kent is wise.

CONGRESSMAN CAMPBELL'S ARDENT ADMIRER

Representative Philip Pitt Campbell tells an amusing incident that happened when he was running for the office of member of the board of education out in Pittsburg, Kan. Among the most ardent admirers and strongest partisans was a son of Erin by the name of Jack O'Brien. Jack was a character around town, who claimed residence in Campbell's ward, slept in the rear of a saloon in another ward, and ate wherever the "wet goods" dispensers made the most inviting display of free lunch.

One day, shortly before election, he came into Mr. Campbell's office and, with an aggrieved expression on his face and with a brogue of richest verdure, relieved himself of the following outburst:

"Begor, Misther Campbell, I was insulted a while ago over be that place," pointing across the street to a saloon. "A man I didn't know walked up to me, and he sez to me, sez he, 'Who der the direction of Shy, the naturalist. Quercus is sent away by Shy, and the poet and naturalist are discussing the heart of nature when Shy suggests that it would be possible for man to comprehend the speech of birds if it were not for Stark, the plume hunter. The two summon Tacita, a dray, for advice, and she invokes Ornis, the spirit of birds, played by Miss Wilson. Tacita is treading a dance of invocation when gunshots are heard and a wounded bird falls to the ground. Tacita and Ornis falls.

Ornis is garbed as a bird; she is wounded, but has recovered and is addressing Shy and Alwyn when Stark, with barking dogs, bursts in. He becomes insolent when he is upbraided for pursuing his game into the bird sanctuary.

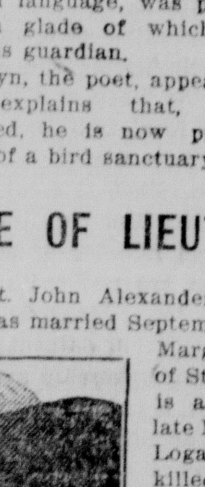

Alwyn and Shy are about to let him depart, cursing, when Alwyn decides on a way to change Stark's nature. He summons Tacita, who begins to weave about Stark a dance of revelation.

Stark follows Tacita to Ornis and recognizes her as the bird spirit for the first time. He is dazzled by her beauty, and Ornis makes an appeal to him. Stark is overcome by remorse and joins the poet and naturalist in a compact to struggle together for the freedom of birds.

WIFE OF LIEUT. JOHN ALEXANDER LOGAN III

Lieut. John Alexander Logan, III, who was married September 2 to Miss Margaret Powell of St. Joseph, Mo., is a son of the late Major-General Logan, who was killed in the Philippines in 1899, and a grandson of the late Gen. John A. Logan, the statesman and hero of many battles in the Civil war.

During the late floods at Dayton, Ohio, Lieutenant Logan, whose mother has a summer home at Youngstown, Ohio, went into the active service of rescuing and preserving property and maintaining order, and for this he was promoted by the governor of Ohio to the Lieutenantship of the Fifth Ohio artillery. Miss Marie Logan married M. Henri de Sincay of Belgium and Miss Edith Logan is engaged to be married to Mr. Dewees W. Dilworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Dilworth of New York.

He Talked Too Much.

A story of "pulling." A dying jockey, commending his son to the gods that govern racing, added as a parting monition: "Never talk, my boy! I talked once too often. I was riding a match with J., and we were neck and neck. 'You needn't ride so hard,' I said. 'I'm not going to win.' 'Oh, aren't you?' he said. Whereupon he fell off his horse and I had to win."

Measuring Up.

"Why do you go around with that wise look?"

"My wife thinks I'm the smartest man on earth, and I'm trying to look the part."

Town of Long Lived People.

Rome, Ga., is a city of about 14,000. There are here more than 50 men over 70 who are making a living without any assistance. Some of them are a good deal over 70, near 80. This applies to whites only. Most of them served four years in the southern army, which was a very hard life and calculated to shorten their days. I suppose there are as many women of the same age, but as to this I have not investigated, says a writer in the Christian Herald. This must be an unusually healthy locality, and there are more old people in it in proportion to numbers than any other place I know of. Fourteen miles from here there lived until a few years ago Nathan White, a farmer. When he was 106 years old he planted and made all alone three bales of cotton and 300 bushels of corn, besides splitting his own rails and cutting firewood for the family. I took him to a photographer and he walked with a cane—walked too fast for me. This man lived to be about 112 years old. He was a native of North Carolina.

American Standard Time.

Time is practically an artificial convention, and of all means of time establishment the sun is the most variable. The standard of our time is that established at the naval observatory in Washington by the observation of the culmination of circumpolar stars. The standard of our time is the astronomical time thus obtained adjusted to the 75th meridian for the eastern time zone, to the 90th and so on at fifteen degree intervals. A difference of longitude measured by fifteen degrees is represented in time by exactly one hour, therefore the minutes and seconds are the same in all parts of the world where time has thus been standardized, the variety affects only the hour and the day. The naval observatory as a part of its duties supplies this time, its general distribution at retail is effected by private enterprise.

Poetry and the Child.

Read poetry to the child: Read easy, simple verse, read nonsense verse, read real poems, read sometimes such poems as Thanatopsis, and bits of Paradise Lost. Of course, the child will not understand the thought, but he will enjoy the sound, and he will unconsciously learn the words. Poetry was never meant to be read aloud or recited. It is harder than prose. The order of the words is often unlike our everyday speech, and the words themselves are frequently different. Here, especially, children need help. If they find it, they learn to love poetry, and there are few things that so sweeten life as a genuine love for poetry, for its beauties, and for the helpful lines that come to one's mind in hard places.

Dangerous Oratory.

A young lawyer had been appointed by the court to defend a man charged with larceny. In his argument to the jury he pleaded for the acquittal of his client. He told of his innocent boyhood days, of good character, of his father, mother and brothers. In short, he launched forth into a family history. The prisoner, an old dandy, had listened with growing eagerness to his counsel's plea, and as the attorney went on without a hint of stopping the negro was driven to desperation. Jumping to his feet he yelled to the court: "T's guilty, yo' honah; I's guilty! De jury can't do no moh dan send me to jail fo' six months, but if dat fool lawyer don stop dey'll hang me, fo' suah!"—Magazine of Fun.

Life Under Pressure.

The bed of the Arctic seas is very fine and plastic, while in the other zones of the Atlantic the bed is covered with reddish mud and an accumulation of the remains of animals that lived in the surface waters, died, and slowly sank. The pressure of the sea increases about one atmosphere to every ten meters, so every additional hundred meters adds the pressure of ten atmospheres. When deep-sea fishes are brought to the surface they lose their scales, their teguments become brittle, and they are so inflated by internal distension caused by the lessened pressure that in many cases they burst asunder.—Harper's Weekly.

WITHDREW IN ROBINS' FAVOR

Mr. Fordham Returns From Visiting State Fair and Attendance of a Committee Meeting.

H. L. Fordham, cashier of the Union State Bank of this city, in an interview this morning with The Telegraph, made a statement concerning his part in the executive session of the Progressive State Central Committee, of which he is treasurer. Mr. Fordham's words follow:

"Some of my friends in Dixon have spoken to me in the past few days in regard to the election of the Chairman of the Progressive State Committee at Springfield last week and it seems that the impression is in the minds of many that Raymond Robins of Chicago defeated me for the position.

"This is not true and I think I owe it to myself to make this explanation. There was no contest for the Chairmanship. Robins' name was the only one presented to the committee and his election was unanimous.

"It is true that my name had been suggested by my friends both on and off the state committee for the chairmanship. It was known that Mr. Bass of Chicago would resign at the meeting at Springfield and at least two weeks before that meeting it was practically decided to present my name for chairman at that meeting.

"When we arrived at Springfield it was learned that Mr. Robins might be induced to take the position and he was so eminently fitted for it and his location in Chicago was so well situated for organization work that practically all members of the committee including myself united in urging Mr. Robins to accept the position.

"I think that probably I had as much to do with influencing Mr. Robins to take the place as any one because I had an interview with him a few minutes before the committee met and up to that time he had not agreed to take the place, realizing the burden of work it meant to him. But after we had discussed the situation for some time he gave me his word that if he was the unanimous choice of the committee he would accept. He was nominated and elected by the votes of all present and with no opposition of any kind.

"Of course I feel grateful to my friends for their interest in me and to the papers for their kindly expressions in regard to me, but I was in no sense a candidate for the place either before or after the meeting of the state committee."

BRANDS STORY AS FALSE.
Champaign, Ill., Oct. 10, 1913.

Editor Evening Telegraph:
Dear Sir—I understand there is a report circulating in Dixon that my arm was broken by hazing at the University of Illinois. This has been published in the Daily News. I thought possibly there had been an item in your paper. If so will you kindly make a correction. My arm was accidentally re-fractured in the physical work in the university gymnasium. This would not have occurred had my arm been completely healed. There has been absolutely no hazing in the university this year and such a report is an injustice to the university. You will do me a favor by publishing the true facts.

Respectfully yours,
PAUL R. MOSSHOLDER.

It's about time, we suppose, to extend congratulations to the backers of the Athletics. Likewise sympathy to the Giant bettors.

And while speaking of sympathy, one can not help noting the pained expression on the faces of a number of well known local Cub fans.

It's strange how a new thing attracts attention. Since this col. started the Rause Mit 'Em club we have received a large number of entries, many of whom are not quite mean enough to get in. However, one came to our attention Saturday that is surely worth membership and this one is a woman, a grandmother, who has charge of an eight year old boy during the absence of the lad's mother from the city. One cold night last week she locked the door on the little fellow at 8 o'clock because he had gone to a neighbor's while she entertained company, and the poor youngster was forced to sleep on the porch, covered only with a rug. There certainly is no question as to her qualifications Rause Mit 'Em is growing.

RUSS FLAG FLOATS
OVER POLAR LANDExpedition Took Possession of
New Discovery in the Name of Czar Nicholas.

IS LAST LARGE ARCTIC BODY

National Geographic Society Members Call Discovery Most Important
Find in the Last Century.

St. Michael, Alaska, Oct. 13.—Commander Wilkitzky, in charge of the Russian party which has been exploring in the Arctic zone, and which has reported the discovery of a vast body of land, was thawed out enough to give full details of the "find."

The land discovered he says lies to the north of Siberia, in latitude 81 north, longitude 104 east. It embraces a new and uninhabited mountainous land, possibly a continent.

The expedition landed with difficulty in the new land, raised the Russian flag and took possession in the name of the czar.

Commander Wilkitzky christened the new land "Nicholas Second Land."

Signs of Volcanic Eruptions.

Commander Wilkitzky says the shore of the new country where the expedition landed and along which the vessels traveled is rocky, with high, abrupt cliffs, formed evidently from volcanic activity.

Volcanoes of the district possibly may have been active recently, he said. Many high peaks, he stated, were discernible inland from the vessels, and what seemed to be vapor could be seen arising from one of these. The temperature taken on the water near the shore line was 51.8 degrees Fahrenheit, while that taken on the shore was 62.6 degrees Fahrenheit. The land was covered with snow almost to the sea.

In July and August the expedition saw much evidence of the presence on the land of reindeer. Many walrus were seen, and bird life was plentiful. A number of polar bears also were noticed.

The vegetation on the new land, Commander Wilkitzky stated, was scant. Twenty fathoms from shore a depth of water of 95 fathoms was sounded.

Battle Solid Ice Pack.

The expedition, Commander Wilkitzky stated, cruised northwesterly along the margin of the newly discovered land to latitude 81, longitude 96 east. It was forced to turn away from the land, which still extended in a northwesterly direction, by the solid ice pack. The expedition then followed the shore line in a southerly direction. At longitude 104 east, latitude 79, the coast turns northeasterly. The expedition cruised along shore line as far as possible. In latitude 76 degrees 40 minutes north it was forced away from the land by ice and then traveled eastward by Bennett, Jeannette and Henrietta islands. The location of these islands, Commander Wilkitzky stated, was accurately determined. Bennett island, he said, had been placed too far north by De Long and is much smaller than had been formerly reported.

The expedition now was in the open polar sea and continued east to longitude 165 west, thence south through Bering straits, including a call at Anadyr bay, Siberia.

Buffeted by Fierce Gale.

On October 3 the most severe gale ever experienced by the officers aboard drove the vessels east of the Lawrence islands. The storm continued with great violence until October 7. There was no loss of life or serious damage on the vessels, which are stanchily built, equipped with the best machinery, and manned by selected seamen.

The voyage in the Arctic was exceptionally pleasant. The only pack ice met during the westward journey was south of Wrangell island and along Nicholas II. land.

North of Cape Chelyushin, between the course pursued by the exploring ships Vega and Fram and Nicholas II. land, the Russian expedition discovered several small islands. No evidence of mineral was seen on any of the newly discovered land.

Ships Will Go to Vladivostok.

The Taymir and Wayatch will proceed from here direct to Vladivostok in a few days, having obtained an ample supply of coal here.

The officers and crews of the ships are being entertained by the officers and men of the Thirtieth regiment, United States infantry, stationed here.

The great cordiality shown officers and men from the Russian ships created a favorable impression.

Commander Wilkitzky is a young man of attractive appearance and manner. He takes his honors modestly, giving full credit to his officers and seamen.

Last Discovery of Land?

Washington, Oct. 13.—Members of the National Geographic society said here that the reported Russian discovery of a continent 500 miles north of Asia, if true, would be the last great discovery of land. They pronounced it the most important discovery within the Arctic circle in the last century.

It was known that the Russian government for years had pursued a survey in the Siberian ocean, but no word had reached here of regular exploring expeditions.

CREW BATTLED FOR LIFE BOATS

Survivor Says Women and Children Were Beaten Back.

PANIC ABOARD SHIP IS TOLD

Most Victims Lost Lives in Effort to Leave Ship in Small Craft—Captain Thinks 143 Persons Perished.

London, Oct. 13.—Forty of the one hundred and thirty-five persons lost from the steamship Voltorno in mid-Atlantic were in the two boats which succeeded in getting away from the burning vessel and which without doubt were swamped.

The majority of the other victims lost their lives when four other boats were smashed against the steamer's sides in an attempt to launch them.

Panic was the first cause of the great loss of life. Members of the crew and men of the steerage passengers pushed aside women and sprang into the first boats. Captain Inch terrorized stokers with his revolver and finally cut the lifeboats' tackle to prevent more boats being lowered.

The Carmania, first of the rescuing ships to reach the burning steamer, arrived off Queenstown in the morning, but owing to the gale proceeded to Fishguard, where it is due to arrive late today.

A graphic story by the solitary survivor aboard the Carmania was received by wireless and presents a terrible picture of the horror, the panic and confusion aboard the burning liner. Walter Trintepohl, a German, who tells the story, clearly is suffering from the stress of illness and awful experiences, however, and his story is too incoherent to be accepted in every detail. Most important, if true, is his denial that two boats got away from the Voltorno.

Survivor Tells Story.
Arthur Spurgeon, a passenger on the Carmania, in a wireless dispatch, supplements his own description of the trip of the Carmania to the burning vessel and the rescue of the passengers of the Voltorno by the story told him by the survivor, Walter Trintepohl, who swam to the Carmania and was rescued in a semi-conscious condition after an hour's battle with the high seas.

Captain Cries Bitterly.
"All went well," said Trintepohl, "until six o'clock Thursday morning, when the fire alarm sounded. We were aroused and told to go on deck, as fire had broken out in the hold. On assembling life belts were handed around, and much time was occupied in fastening them. We were told that the fire might soon be quenched, but the captain thought it wise for all to have belts as a precaution.

"The fire frightened the captain, who cried bitterly. There were many babies in arms. The fire grew worse. We saw things blazing down below. About ten o'clock there was a cry to lower the boats.

Crew Adds to Panic.
"The captain then behaved splendidly. So did the officers, who were English. I am sorry to say that the crew, who are Germans and Belgians, behaved very badly. The people rushed about wildly, and the crew seemed to think they ought to have first place, and instead of quieting the passengers they made the panic worse.

"The first officer took charge of the first boat, but, although he wanted the women and children saved first, a majority of those who entered the boat were members of the crew. This boat was smashed against the ship's side. Just as it reached the water it broke in two and all were drowned.

Boats All Smashed.
"Meanwhile attempts were made to lower the second boat. I cannot say who was in charge of this, but I do know that after the chief steward had thrown provisions in he jumped in himself. There were more men and women and children in this boat, which did not go down, for it was broken against the ship and all were drowned. These two boats were amidships.

"Three others were put out aft. The fourth officer was in one of them, but I cannot say which one. All was confusion. The ropes broke and the people were thrown into the water and drowned or killed. When the captain saw what had happened he cut the tackle of the other boats so that they could not be launched.

"We were all glad when we saw the Carmania coming, for we said: 'Now we shall all be saved.'

Firemen Driven Below.
"The firemen rushed up from below and refused to go back. The captain drew his revolver and drove them below, but soon after, as the fire was spreading, they were obliged to abandon the engines.

"As soon as the Carmania was sighted the captain made all the women and children go to one side, and the men to the other side. He had been compelled to leave the bridge and go aft because it was too hot. Women wept, shrieked, laughed and became hysterical.

"We had not thought of food, but in the afternoon we considered it better to get something and went to the kitchens, which we found deserted, made coffee and helped ourselves to biscuit and beef. But most of the passengers refused to eat.

"We saw rafts sent from the Car-

England's Vanishing Lake.

The famous Dunkirk lake at Northwich (Cheshire) has vanished—for the second time within a year. In a few seconds millions of gallons of water entered the bowels of the earth through a great chasm, 200 feet deep, formed by a subsidence, and left an empty space where the lake had been. A big landslide in this countryside honeycombed by subsidences due to brine-pumping, occurred about 20 years ago, and in May last the lake formed. Three months later it suddenly emptied itself and then began slowly to refill. Traffic in the vicinity of the phenomenon was at once stopped, and precautions have been taken to prevent further collapses of earth.—London Mirror.

Hank, the Hermit.

This is the way he lost his home, as he called at the house where he used to roam to flirt with the girl he liked the best—"twas thus that he lost that cozy nest: 'You know, Mr. Benjamin Griggs?' she said. 'I hate the son-of-a-gun,' said he. 'Listen—last night he paid me a call and he tried to kiss me, out in the hall.' 'The dickens he did! Well, well—poor Ben! So the poor fellow is drinking again!' And that was the jest that started the fight, and that was the way he lost the delight of seeing his lady on Saturday night. And all who know it say, 'Serves him right!'—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Lace Designs From Spider Webs.

Missionaries in Paraguay more than 200 years ago taught the native Indians to make lace by hand. Since that day the art has greatly developed, and in certain of the towns lace making is the chief occupation. Almost all the women, many children and not a few men are engaged in this industry. A curious fact with reference to the Paraguayan laces is that the designs were borrowed from the strange webs woven by the semi-tropical spiders that abound in that country. Accordingly this lace is by the natives called manduti, which means "spider web."—Harper's Weekly.

Grocer's Wife (anxiously) "Oh, Jim, are you hurt?" Grocer (savagely, but with dignity)—"Go 'way, woman. What do you know about war?"—Everybody's.

mania, but nobody told us to jump in. In fact, we knew not what they were there for. About six o'clock the decks aft began to get very warm, then hotter and hotter. But we did not seem to feel the heat."

When shown his boat with the sole half burned through, Trintepohl said: "I don't remember this, but it was awful when the flames burst out. Some of the men and women tore their hair, but others were quite still.

Fights Seas for Hour.

"After the explosion I thought it better to jump, for I am a good swimmer, and an English passenger and one of the crew said they would accompany me. I jumped first; they followed, but I never saw them again. 'I made for the German ship, but they did not hear me. Then I came toward the Carmania and shouted 'Help!' and was seen by aid of the searchlight. I was about an hour in the sea and became half-conscious. I know not how I was got out.

"During the day five sailors and one steward fell into the fire and were burned to death. I know nothing more. I came away because it was too hot to stay any longer, and I feared the whole ship would blow up."

When Trintepohl was told that, according to the captain's wireless message, six boats had been launched and two got away, he said: "It is not so. I was there all the time and saw everything. No boat got away."

A wireless from the Carmania to the Daily Mail thus describes the rescue of the passengers from the Voltorno:

"The boats took off in quick succession the survivors, who passed one by one down the lines. Daybreak saw the arrival of the Narragansett, an oil tank steamer, which came at full speed, took up a position slightly to the windward of the Voltorno, and in a few minutes had two large streams of oil pouring on the water. This was invaluable in helping the rescue work of the small boats around the Voltorno's stern.

"By nine o'clock the 521 survivors had been taken off. Each ship went on a short cruise in different directions to scout for the missing boats, but nothing was seen of them.

"That more than 550 lives were not lost was due, first, to the wireless; second to the speedy arrival and organization of Captain Barr of the Carmania; third, to the splendid seamanship of the international rescue squadron; fourth, to the Voltorno's staunch bulkheads; fifth, and above all, to the providential moderation of the gale during Thursday night."

Reports from the rescuing ships say the Seydlitz has 42 passengers instead of 32; the Devonshire, 18 men, 20 women, and 21 children; the Rappahannock, 15 women and 4 children, and La Touraine, 42 instead of 40.

Captain Figures 143 Dead.

New York, Oct. 13.—A message from Captain Inch, the first direct communication from a person who had been on board the ill-fated Uranium liner to reach the offices of the steamship company here, was received here. It was sent by wireless from the Kroonland and picked up at Ouessant, France, and relayed to New York by cable. It said:

"Voltorno on fire, abandoned in latitude 48.29 north, longitude 34.39 west. Approximate passengers saved, 485; approximate crew saved, 25.

"INCH."

If Captain Inch's figures are correct 143 persons lost their lives as a result of the disaster.

Throughout the day the offices of the Uranium line were besieged with persons seeking tidings of relatives or friends aboard the Voltorno.

Mrs. F. L. Alexander, who, with her daughter, both friends of officers of the Voltorno, crossed the ocean aboard that vessel on its last trip to this port, related how the disaster had been foretold in a dream to Christopher Pennington, a young Englishman, who was the junior wireless operator aboard the Voltorno.

"Pennington told me during the voyage," she said, "that he had dreamed that the Voltorno was ablaze in mid-ocean, and that a panic occurred aboard the vessel. He said that in this dream he stuck to the wireless apparatus and sent out call after call for help. Soon, he said, he thought the vessel was surrounded by six mammoth steamships, which pitched and tossed in the high sea. He described how the small boats looked like cockle shells, and how some of them were crushed against the side of the Voltorno. In the end he was saved, he told me, but added that he was going to resign his post."

Pennington was one of those picked up by the Narragansett.

Motorcycle Suits Marshall.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Vice-President Marshall wasn't worried a bit because the house refused to appropriate $7,000 to buy him an automobile. "I may buy myself a motorcycle," he said.

Aerial Railways Now.

A German company has proposed the establishment of a telephage, or an aerial railway system, between the city of Cucuta and the Magdalena river, to enable the Cucuta district to import and export through the Republic of Venezuela and the Gulf of Maracaibo.

OUR SUBJECT today is the most important feature of our business---the one most intimately associated in the public mind with the name Campbell's.

Coats, Suits, Dresses

Most people have the desire and the occasion to buy one or more garments of wearing apparel OF REAL WORTH at one time or another, and in the majority of cases, such purchases are important items of expenditure to be carefully made.

Therefore, the subject of this advertisement is of real interest to every reader of this paper and is perhaps the most vital point in the MESSAGE we are endeavoring to deliver to those who are not well acquainted with us.

The Garments You Buy

should possess intrinsic value and style—be of good design and well made

There can be no real satisfaction in possessing or wearing a garment unless one has positive knowledge that it is beyond criticism.

Our Garments Have Attained Their Prestige

BECAUSE—We have always and do now maintain the highest standard in quality of our garments which have been selected from the lines of the most representative makers.

We have connections with houses which keep us posted on the newest styles as soon as they are created and pronounced good.

We give personal supervision to the buying and selling of the garments in our shops securing Campbell's requirements in every transaction.

Some of you who have never dealt here perhaps desire to have the advantages enjoyed by our customers in the purchasing of your wearing apparel, but have felt you could not afford to pay the prices.

Such an impression regarding our prices, though incorrect, is really a tribute to us—it is one that often obtains about most houses dealing in FIRST CLASS MERCHANDISE.

BUT—Campbell's is just the place for the women of moderate means to make her purchases because she will invariably find them full value for her money—and will have an abundance of goods from which to choose.

We could not have built up our splendid business if we charged more than others for goods of equal merit.

Following advertisements will announce some new things in wearing apparel for women. Won't you come in and look at our stock—it changes interest every day and you will be most welcome.

Marathon Up Mountain Side. A marathon race up a mountain in the Swiss Alps is a test of endurance to which only the most vigorous among professional mountaineers would care to submit themselves. The first event of this kind took place recently, and despite the obvious difficulties proved a great success. The mountain selected was the Stanserhorn, 6,236 feet above sea level, and the difference in altitude to be covered was roughly 4,700 feet, the starting point, the little town of Stans, being some 1,500 feet above the sea. About 1,500 spectators took the funicular railway up the mountainside or made a leisurely ascent on foot to cheer the winner.

Why Little Women Fascinate. Little women appear to fascinate men more than big ones do. Perhaps it is because they look up to men, and so appeal to their chivalry. They are less independent by nature and more confiding. A little woman always strikes a man as being more or less helpless, and he wants, if he is a manly man, to shield her, if necessary, and to take her part. Little women are more dainty than big ones, and have prettier hands and feet. A five and a half glove appeals to the masculine heart where a six and three-quarters one utterly fails.

Missouri Has "Shown." It is estimated that the voluntary labor by business men and farmers put on the roads of Missouri for two days was worth to the state in money value about $1,500,000 besides the impetus given the good roads movement, whose value cannot be calculated in dollars and cents. One leading ambition of every state ought to be for its good roads, and Missouri, in strict accordance with its motto, has "shown" the other states how practical the ambition is in its own case.

Good Roads.

The making of good roads is one of the most important duties of the American people, and their prompt repair and careful maintenance is essential. There is probably no subject in which the progressive farmer is more deeply interested than that of having roads connecting him with his markets over which he may be able to haul the greatest possible load. Good roads, like all other good things, are too expensive to build and of too much value to be neglected.

Missouri Has "Shown." It is estimated that the voluntary labor by business men and farmers put on the roads of Missouri for two days was worth to the state in money value about $1,500,000 besides the impetus given the good roads movement, whose value cannot be calculated in dollars and cents. One leading ambition of every state ought to be for its good roads, and Missouri, in strict accordance with its motto, has "shown" the other states how practical the ambition is in its own case.

OF LOCAL INTEREST

SOME PEOPLE WE KNOW, AND WE WILL PROFIT BY HEARING ABOUT THEM

This is purely a local event. It took place in Dixon. Not in some faraway place. You are asked to investigate it. Asked to believe a citizen's word. To confirm a citizen's statement. Any article that is endorsed at home is more worthy of confidence. Than one you know nothing about. Endorsed by unknown people. Julius Gottlieb, merchant, 418 W. First St., Dixon, Ill., says: "My back had been causing me trouble. After it was so lame and sore that it was hard to bend over. The kidney action was irregular and I knew that my kidneys were disordered. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I got a supply at Leake Bros. Co. Drug store. They did such good work that I recommended them. I am glad to do so again."

Bread Without Flour. In France bread is being made without flour in a machine that transforms the wheat directly into dough. The wheat is prepared by a thorough washing, after which operation about a pint of tepid water to a pound of grain is added, the whole mixture being allowed to stand some six hours when the grains of wheat have swollen to twice their usual size. The mixture is then treated with yeast and salt and poured into the machine where simultaneously the envelop and the body of the grain is crushed, making a homogeneous mixture forming a smooth paste.

Longest Lived Animal. Undoubtedly the longest lived animal on earth is the whale, its span of existence being estimated by Cuvier at one thousand years. The next largest animal, the elephant, will, under favorable conditions, live four hundred years. The average age of cats is fifteen years, of squirrels seven or eight years, of rabbits seven. A bear rarely exceeds twenty years, a wolf twenty, a fox fourteen to sixteen. Lions are comparatively long lived, instances having been recorded where they reached the age of seventy years.—Tit-Bits.

Queenly Queen. Carmen Sylva, the Queen of Roumania, had her eyes bandaged for weeks while she laboriously learned to write Braille, the raised letters for the blind. It is said that not only did her eyes ache, but her right hand as well; but by the process she became one of the most helpful friends the blind people in all the world have ever had. She established a school for them, where they were taught music and many industries, so that they could earn their own livelihood.—Christian Herald.

ATHLETICS WELCOMED

Athletics Given Rousing Reception at Philadelphia.

Fans Are Restrained by Police From Rushing Champion Baseball Players of the World.

Philadelphia, Oct. 13.—Many Athletic supporters gave the triumphant Mackmen a rousing reception at the North Philadelphia railroad station upon their arrival from New York. Hundreds of fans made a rush for the players to demonstrate their joy at the outcome of the series, but were restrained by a big squad of policemen.

Long before the Athletics won the world's series of 1913 the members of the team had made up their minds as to what they would do with the extra money. Each player will get about $3,300, in addition to a bonus they are to receive from the club. Here is what some of the members have decided to do with the money:

Connie Mack—Save it until he gets enough to purchase the other half of the Athletics. He already owns one-half of the stock.
McInnis—Use it to get married and take a honeymoon.

Bender—Buy a few more up-to-date shotguns.

Bush—Buy an automobile.
Schang—Same as Bush.

Baker—Buy a farm next to his present one at Trappe, Md.

Thomas—Purchase another row of houses in Philadelphia.

Barry—Put in a large stock of gasoline in his garage, hoping for an increase in price.

Davis—Increase his scrap iron business.

The rest of the team are secretive, but all declare they propose to have just one rip-snorting good time.

New York, Oct. 13.—When the last man up had batted out a fly the Giants stood at their dugout with cardigans over their arms, impatient to run to the clubhouse. Plank started for the visitors' bench, only to meet half a dozen team mates, who hugged him, wrung his hand and congratulated him. McGraw strode over and offered his congratulations, and for a quarter of an hour the victors were hemmed in by a crowd of inquisitive fans.

Like all great fighters, Merkle has an alibi. This unfortunate Gothamite is suffering one of the most drastic, concerted criticisms ever directed upon a human, and Merkle was trying to stage a well-conceived, though wretchedly executed play. After the game the unhappy Giant explained that it was his intention to touch Baker as the latter approached on the first base line, then to toss to McLean, thereby doubling Murphy, who is one of the fastest men in organized baseball. Both runners outguessed Merkle, who was made to look like four cents' worth of Eskimo dog meat.

BIG FIRE LOSS IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 13.—Fire destroyed the S. Mendenhall building at Seventh and Adams streets, in the heart of the downtown district. The loss to the Johnson-Hatchery company, occupying the Mendenhall building, is over $100,000 on stock and the loss on the building is over $50,000. When the walls of the Mendenhall building fell suddenly the great crowd which had gathered surged back and several persons, including firemen, were slightly injured.
